

Cestrum Nocturnum

Common Name: Night Blooming Jasmine,
Night Jessamine

Climate zone: 10A-11

Origin: Caribbean

Flowering season: Spring and summer

Salt Tolerance: Medium

Soil requirements: Wide range

Nutritional requirements: Medium

Light requirements: High, medium

Major problems: None

Common uses: Flowering shrub

This night blooming, evergreen shrub, with green, simple leaves, grows at a medium height to a height of about twelve feet. It has fragrant, greenish-white, tubular flowers, a medium drought tolerance and is propagated by seeds and cuttings. The fruit and flowers are poisonous.