

Euphorbia Punicea

Family: Euphorbiaceae

Common Name: None

Climate Zone: USDA zones 10B-11

Origin: Caribbean

Flowering season: Spring, summer or fall

Salt Tolerance: High

Soil requirements: Wide range

Nutritional requirements: Low

Light requirements: High

Major problems: None

Common uses: Rock gardens and shrubs

This evergreen, succulent shrub grows to a height of 15 feet, has green leaves and showy, red flowers. It has a high drought tolerance and can be propagated by cuttings. The sap of this plant can be a skin irritant.